TRI-STATE PARENTS WANTED

The Learning Channel (TLC) is searching for families in the Tri-state area to be featured on the second season of Shalom in the Home.

Problems with your in-laws? Finding it difficult to relate to your children? Dealing with marital infidelity? Whatever the issue might be, we are eager to find families experiencing disharmony in their households, who might require some expert guidance.

Shalom in the Home is a prime-time series that helps families overcome their thorniest problems. Its host, Rabbi Shmuley Boteach, is an Oxford trained theologian and philosopher who's written over a dozen books on families, and counseled hundreds of people through difficulties with marriage and parenting.

The first season was such a success, that Shmuley was recently invited to share his knowledge on The Oprah Winfrey Show. We are about to begin our second season, and are eager to bring our production to New Jersey, and feature a family in your local area.

The hallmark of the series is Shmuley's insight into relationships, marriage and parenting. In each episode he takes one family on an intensive 10-day journey. Using a battery of exercises and technologies, he helps them come to terms with their problems, and find the skills and resolve they need to improve things at home.

Interested families should call the casting department on 646-763-8189, ext. 209, or send an email to acole@diverseusa.tv with a bit of information about their family's situation. They can also apply now at tlc.com/shalom.
